THE JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA

ANNUAL REPORT

of the

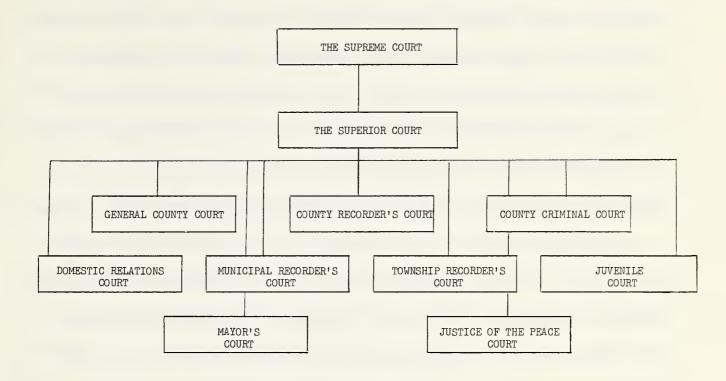

ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICE OF THE COURTS

1966

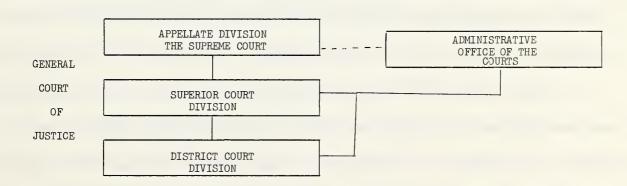

STRUCTURE OF THE JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT

I. Prior to the effective date of The Judicial Department Act of 1965:

II. Under The Judicial Department Act of 1965:

This structure is now in effect as to twenty-two counties. The District Court will be activated in sixty-one additional counties on December 2, 1968. On December 7, 1970, the new system will become implemented on a state-wide basis.

THE COURTS IN TRANSITION

Historically, we have had in North Carolina three levels of courts -the Supreme Court, the Superior Court, and, at the local level, hundreds of recorder's courts, domestic relations courts, mayor's courts, county courts, and justice of the peace courts. All of these lower courts were creatures of the Legislature, hardly any two alike. They exercised such jurisdiction as was given them by statute. It was recognized more than twelve years ago that something should be done to bring uniformity to our court system; and, at the suggestion of Governor Hodges and Chief Justice Barnhill, the North Carolina Bar Association sponsored a study in depth which ultimately resulted in the submission of a Constitutional Amendment to the people of the State, which was voted upon and adopted by the people at the general election held November 6, 1962. Thus, Article IV of the Constitution of North Carolina now provides: "The judicial power of the State shall be vested in a . . . General Court of Justice. The General Court of Justice shall constitute a unified judicial system for purposes of jurisdiction, operation and administration; and shall consist of an appellate division, a superior court division, and a district court division."

Amendment and the convening of the 1963 General Assembly to permit the preparation of legislation to implement the new judicial article. The General Assembly of 1963 provided for the appointment of a Courts Commission and charged it with the responsibility "to prepare and draft the legislation necessary for the full and complete implementation of Article IV of the Constitution of North Carolina".

The Courts Commission began its study soon after the adjournment of the 1963 General Assembly. Its work between sessions culminated in the passage of The Judicial Department Act of 1965, codified as Chapter 7A of the General Statutes. This Act implemented the constitutional structure of the courts, created an Administrative Office of the Courts, established the framework of the District Court Division within the General Court of Justice, and provided for activation of the District Court in three separate phases.

The Appellate Division is the present Supreme Court of North Carolina. We anticipate that it will be enlarged by the 1967 General Assembly to include an intermediate Court of Appeals, so as to relieve the burden occasioned by the volume of work at the appellate level.

The Superior Court Division consists of the Superior Courts of North Carolina. This division will remain essentially unchanged, allowing, of course for the addition of manpower as the State continues to grow and litigation continues to increase.

The District Court Division introduces the greatest change in our system. The 1965 Act provided for the establishment of a District Court on December 5, 1966, in six judicial districts, comprising twenty-two counties. In December, 1968, the District Court will be established in an additional sixty-one counties, and in December, 1970, in the remaining seventeen counties.

The District Court will have exclusive original jurisdiction of misdemeanors, and concurrent jurisdiction of civil cases where the amount in controversy is $5,000 or less, and of domestic relations cases regardless of the amount in controversy. Jury trial is provided, upon demand, in civil cases.

Appeal therefrom to the Superior Court is on questions of law, only. No jury is authorized in criminal cases. Upon appeal, trial de novo will be had in Superior Court. District judges will be elected to four-year terms.

When the District Court is established in a judicial district, all courts inferior to the Superior Court are abolished, all cases pending in the abolished courts are transferred to the dockets of the District Court for trial, and all records of the abolished courts must be transferred to the office of the Clerk of Superior Court, who, under the law, is required to maintain a system of consolidated records for both the Superior Court and the District Court.

The Chief District Judge in each district has many administrative responsibilities, including the following: arranging schedules and assigning district judges for sessions of district courts; arranging or supervising the calendaring of matters for trial or hearing; supervising the clerk of court in the discharge of the clerical functions of the District Court; assigning matters to magistrates, and prescribing times and places at which magistrates shall be available for the performance of their duties; making arrangements with proper authorities for the drawing of civil court jury panels and determining which sessions of the District Court shall be jury sessions; arranging for the reporting of civil cases by court reporters or other authorized means; arranging sessions, to the extent practicable, for the trial of specialized cases, including traffic, domestic relations, and other types of cases, and assigning district judges to preside over these sessions so as to permit maximum practicable specialization by individual judges; promulgating a schedule of traffic offenses for which magistrates and clerks of court may accept written appearances, waivers of trial, and pleas of guilty, and establishing a schedule of fines therefor; assigning magistrates, in an emergency, to temporary duty outside the county of their residence, but within the district; and designating another district judge of his district as acting Chief District Judge. The foregoing itemization clearly demonstrates that the Chief District Judge will be a very busy person. He will be expected to hold his reasonable share of courts while attending to all the administrative duties.

As noted above, the office of justice of the peace will be abolished. The old days of the "fee system" are gone forever. While it is obviously true that over the years we have had many fine justices of the peace, it is nevertheless well known that the system was abused by many who did not have sufficient regard for the fact that they were judicial officers of this State. The people have decreed that magistrates shall hereafter act in minor civil and criminal matters only. The law prescribes the number of magistrates for each county, requires that they be paid a salary by the State, and gives the Chief District Judge general supervisory authority over them. They are appointed by the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge of each judicial district, upon recommendation by the Clerk of Superior Court. They serve for a term of two years, and their salary is set by the Administrative Office of the Courts, within the salary range authorized by statute.

The people of this State, when they amended the Constitution in 1962, directed the General Assembly to provide for an Administrative Office of the Courts to carry out the provisions of the Constitutional Amendment. That was done by the General Assembly of 1965. The primary duties of the Director of that office, as set forth in G. S. 7A-343, are as follows: collect and compile statistical data and other information on the judicial and financial operation of the courts and on the operation of other offices directly related to and serving the courts; determine the state of the dockets and evaluate the practices and procedures of the courts, and make recommendations concerning the number of judges, solicitors, prosecutors and magistrates required for the efficient administration of justice; prescribe uniform administrative and business methods, systems, forms and records to be used in the offices of the clerks of court; prepare and submit budget estimates of State appropriations necessary for the maintenance and operation of The Judicial Department, and authorize expenditures from funds appropriated for these purposes; investigate, make recommendations concerning, and assist in the securing of adequate physical accommodations for the General Court of Justice; procure, distribute, exchange, transfer, and assign such equipment, books, forms and supplies as are to be acquired with State funds for the General Court of Justice; make recommendations for the improvement of the operations of The Judicial Department; prepare and submit an annual report on the work of The Judicial Department to the Chief Justice, and transmit a copy to each member of the General Assembly; assist the Chief Justice in performing his duties relating to the transfer of district court judges for temporary or specialized duty; and perform such additional duties and exercise such additional powers as may be prescribed by statute or assigned by the Chief Justice.

Numerous additional special functions are found in applicable sections of The Judicial Department Act of 1965, as follows: assist the Chief Justice in scheduling courts and assigning judges; approve designation of attorney to assist solicitor of Superior Court and authorize length of time of service; provide mechanical recording devices for Superior Court trials, if reporter unavailable, and determine salary limits of court reporters; determine the numbers and salaries of assistant clerks, deputy clerks, and other employees of clerks' office; with Department of Administration and subject to approval of State Auditor, establish procedures for receipt, deposit, protection, investment, and disbursement of funds; fix amount of clerks' bond and determine adequacy; prescribe and procure bonds for assistant and deputy clerks and other employees; concur with Chief District Judge in determining adequacy of facilities for additional seats of district court; in conjunction with Chief District Judge, determine whether special counselor services should be made available to the District Court in counties of 100,000 population or more and determine number and salaries; determine additional compensation and allowances paid to holdover district court judges; designate specialized judgeships; approve designation of attorneys to assist prosecutor of the District Court and authorize length of service; prescribe salaries to be paid to magistrates and approve establishment of additional magistrateships within maximum authorized by the General Assembly and set salaries; determine amount of magistrates' bonds and procure such bonds; prescribe records to be maintained by magistrates; supervise establishment and maint enance of office of consolidated records in each clerk of court's office and prescribe form and style of records; provide mechanical recorders for district courts and determine salary range for district court reporters; establish alternative procedures for prompt payment of jurors, witnesses, and "other small expense items"; approve provision of physical facilities by a municipality; approve amount of surplus from "facilities fees" to be used for retirement of outstanding indebtedness or to supplement operation of the General Court of Justice.

Under our former system, the expenses of operating the courts of this State have been paid from 101 different sources. Under the new system, essentially all the expenses of the courts will be paid by the State. The 100 counties, numerous municipalities, and the State have been spending an estimated $20,000,000 per year to operate the courts. Under the new system, this figure should remain essentially the same, except as additional costs may be occasioned by an expanding economy and a corresponding increase in litigation.

After the establishment of the Administrative Office on July 1, 1965, the Director proceeded to organize the office and began plans for activation of the District Court in twenty-two counties on December 5, 1966. Three divisions were established in the Administrative Office -- accounting and budget, personnel, and clerks' supervisor. Division heads were employed, and the recruiting of a sufficient staff to serve during the first phase of the District Court implementation began. The budget request for the 1967-69 biennium was prepared and presented. The operating budget for the remainder of the 1965-67 biennium was worked out from the initial lump sum appropriation. Following the election of the District Court judges, the Chief Justice designated the Chief District Judges. The Superior Court Judges selected and appointed District Court prosecutors, magistrates, and court reporters. A special committee of the Association of Clerks of Superior Court was appointed to assist the office in the preparation of uniform forms and practices for the clerks' offices. This project has progressed satisfactorily, but will require several years for completion. Uniform accounting and auditing practices for The Judicial Department were established. Inventories and determinations of needs for forms, equipment and supplies in the various clerks' offices were made. A study was conducted as to the adequacy of court facilities at the additional seats of court within the various counties. Construction and renovation was suggested in some localities, and this work was instituted. Seminars were planned and held for the purpose of training the new judicial and other court personnel. A program of instruction designed to train an adequate supply of court reporters was instituted in the community college system. A study of mechanical recording equipment was made in order that this equipment might be made available in the event a sufficient number of court reporters were not available. A classification and pay plan for Judicial Department employees was prepared. Position authorizations were made for assistant and deputy clerks and other employees of the clerks' offices. The numbers and salaries of magistrates were prescribed. Bond require ments were studied, and bonds were procured for the necessary officers and employees. Numerous administrative and legal memoranda were prepared and distributed for guidance of the personnel affected. Statistical reporting forms were devised, printed and distributed. Finally, in these plans and organizational problems, constant coordination was maintained with the Chief Justice, the Courts Commission, the State Department of Administration, and local officials.

The Administrative Officer has attended and participated in the meetings of the Courts Commission. His recommendations for improvements in the law and in the operations of The Judicial Department are embodied in the recommendations which will be made by the Courts Commission to the 1967 General Assembly.

By 1970 North Carolina should have a unified system of courts -- The General Court of Justice -- housed in appropriate facilities at all levels and conducted in a proper atmosphere so as to afford, in truth as well as in theory, equal justice under law for every man. The resulting improvement in the administration of justice is obvious and should be a source of pride to all those who have participated in the effort. We need the help, the cooperation, and the understanding of the judicial officers and employees and, indeed, of all citizens of the State in this endeavor.

Since the District Court has been in session only six weeks as of the time of preparation of this Report, there has been insufficient time for the preparation of meaningful data on the new system. In view of the activation dates of the District Court -- i.e., December of the respective years -- reports will henceforth be based on the calendar year. Table "F" shows the number of cases accumulated on the District Court dockets, by transfer and by new filings, between December 5 and December 31, 1966. The remaining data and analysis constitutes a continuation of the fiscal-year-based reports formerly made by the Administrative Assistant.

There were ten counties having more than 200 criminal cases pending at the end of the year. Nine of these counties are on the list which have the largest accumulations of civil cases. The transaction of criminal business in these nine counties during the year was as follows:

	CASES FILED	CASES DISPOSED OF	CASES PENDING 6/30/66
Cumberland	1139	1021	347
Forsyth	1578	1496	428
Durham	1433	1438	398
Mecklenburg	2489	2726	400
Wake	1062	1197	581
Guilford	1872	1809	660
Gaston	1013	782	408
Davidson	506	440	336
Buncombe	1140	930	574

This group of counties accounted for 39% of the criminal cases filed in the Superior Court during the year, 38% of the dispositions, and 42% of the cases pending at the end of the year.

In the limited number of counties where the accumulation of criminal cases is such that some delay in trial may be encountered, the problem lies in the shortage of courtroom facilities and prosecuting officers. As to civil cases the problem is different. In many jurisdictions it is the practice to assign to the court the responsibility of moving forward with a case once it is filed. In this State the general practice is to allow voluntary calendaring of cases by counsel. Under this practice, delay must be measured from time of readiness rather than from time of filing. When it is so measured, there is no reported serious delay in this State. Even in what might be referred to as our metropolitan districts where a lengthy waiting period would be expected, cases are usually reached for trial within six to twelve months of the filing date. This is remarkable in view of the small number of Judges serving the Superior Court.

The Council of State Governments published a study entitled "State Court Systems," revised in July, 1966. The numbers of judges serving the trial courts of general jurisdiction of the respective states appearing in the following table were taken from that study.

STATE	POPULATION (1960)	NUMBER OF JUDGES
Alabama	3,266,740	76
Colorado	1,753,947	69
Florida	4,951,560	119
Georgia	3,943,116	52
Indiana	4,662,498	129
Iowa	2,757,537	75
Kansas	2,178,611	57
Kentucky	3,038,156	68

Louisiana	3,257,022	81
Minnesota	3,431,864	65
Missouri	4,319,813	93
North Carolina	4,556,155	43
Oregon	1,768,687	53
Tennessee	3,567,089	79
Virginia	3,966,949	79
Washington	2,853,214	76

The average number of Judges in the 15 other States listed, all but two of which have populations less than that of North Carolina, is 78. The average number for the entire 50 States is 70.2.
